

Current Implementation of the System

The password is entered into the bank server and split at the bank server into 2 halves. Each half is sent to each split server, as a key,value pair

The bank server then sends a query to each of the split servers. The split servers reply with the corresponding value for the corresponding key queried.